

Daily Eagle.

M. M. MURDOCK & BROTHER, Proprietors.

PERSONAL AND LOCAL ITEMS OF NEWS.

Not many Republicans about here feel like giving up their bets yet.

We take nothing from Morry Barnum without conclusive proof.

Quite a number of lots were made on the result in New York yesterday.

Apples, hay and logs appeared to be the chief stock in trade of the farmers yesterday.

Newton H. Rudolph, the freight receiving clerk of the Santa Fe office, went down to Derby last night to see his girl.

The police court docket was as large as a bean pole yesterday. Not a single name appeared on Judge Glen's books.

Several wagon loads of fine apples were yesterday brought to the city and found ready sale at retail on the street.

C. A. Dieter lost a bunch of keys yesterday, and the return of the keys to this office will be deemed a favor by the owner.

The mayor decided to take off all the extra police yesterday, and the decision was put into effect last night—two much protection.

Did you ever think that there is not a patriotic song written in the last twenty-five years that a Democratic crowd can sing? Poor old Democracy!

No paper in the state made a more able and judicious fight for Republicanism during the campaign than the Wichita Eagle.

There were a large number of people in town yesterday, and the stores were well filled with customers, who were buying themselves rich and happy.

It is said that the proprietor of the Palace billiard saloon has shaken the dust of the city off of his slippers, much to the disgust of a large circle of creditors.

Why don't somebody declare that if Ben Butler, Belva Lockwood or St. Louis is elected he will shoulder a musket to land them safely in the White House.

The Singer sewing machine company has removed its quarters from the old stand, on the corner of the Eagle block, No. 208 Douglas street, opposite the postoffice.

The "don't beat New York how hell has gone" a little mixed at first, but on reflection we rather think that it is the way it is.

Mr. P. S. McMiller, a former partner of the Hoffman Bros. in the tobacco business, is about to leave the city for Conway Springs where he will engage in the potato business.

There are two business men, Messrs. Melling and Hoffman and Stockwell, returned yesterday from a three days' tour, having bagged a big lot of ducks, quails and prairie chickens.

They ratified, according to Morry Barnum's orders and song, "In the Sweet By-and-By." Perhaps after next Tuesday the tune will change to "Plunged in a Gulf of Deep Despair."

It is reported that a man living near Leon attempted to commit suicide, but failed, but under the impression that he had lost a large amount on the result of the election. He had better look on awhile.

Mr. James Rodgers, one of El Dorado's prominent business men, and who has been here for some time, is about to leave for his home in the state capital, where he is spending a day or two with friends in this city.

Some one of the boys was wondering at the premature demonstration made by the Democrats last night, when another remarked: "In this case, the Democrats will demonstrate over anything when they get together for the powder."

Policeman H. C. Brainerd was stripped of his insignia of office yesterday. An officer with him might reveal something starting about the inner circle of the police force. Well we can't care to know any more than we have already caught on to.

Mr. E. Hill has had a new wing built to her already commodious residence on the corner of Lawrence avenue and Third street, which she has furnished elegantly throughout and has opened a new and well appointed boarding house. We understand that it is the intention of boarders and aim to conduct the new enterprise upon a thorough first-class basis.

One of the Eagle's staff made an old lady almost faint with joy yesterday, at Rowe & Saur's drug store on Douglas avenue. The reporter frequently takes the liberty to write in a joking manner, and as he frequently gets lost himself. On the occasion in question he went into the drug store and said: "Hello, is surely elected." An old lady stood near the counter and upon hearing the announcement, she jumped about three feet high and uttered an exclamation of mingled surprise and joy.

Findlay Ross yesterday received a car load of sofas and lounges, all of which were of handsome design and finish. The entering firm does business on Douglas avenue and what they haven't in stock is scarcely worth having. Their large store rooms are now so crowded that they could not find space for this last large invoice and it was necessary to store it in the room of Jack & Child, where this beautiful and complete line of goods can be seen.

A young man who has kept a fruit and confectionery stand on Douglas avenue, near Market street, during the past summer, has suddenly disappeared, and it is not having been seen since election day. It may be that he has gone on a hunt in the interest of St. John, or he may have chosen to leave the city without announcing a brass band and may be will return in the same quiet manner. His accounts, so far as known from all right, and the mysterious disappearance may soon be explained and made satisfactory to a speculating public.

There were many farmers' teams in town yesterday and nearly all of them, when they started on their homeward trip, had a load of fruit trees aboard. The two places on Douglas avenue where the large nursery stock is being held for delivery, were surrounded during most of the day by the teams of persons who had ordered goods from the agents who had taken the orders some time ago and are now making the deliveries. The trees are vigorous and nice ones and those persons who had ordered them, not only called promptly for them, but were a pleasant lot as they drove away with the future heirs of Arkansas valley prize fruits.

Synth & Sons were the happy recipients of a very fine specimen of a night owl a few days ago. His owlship was with a piece of rope in the impudent warehouse, and yesterday he determined to regain his liberty. He succeeded in eating off his bonds and then made a dash for the window, apparently going through a pane of very heavy glass and alighted in a wagon out on the sidewalk. He was so badly stunned by the operation that he was unable to fly. He was captured again, and was seen in a box looking as sick as the Beacon bird will be next week.

Al Klabber, the auctioneer at the horse and mule market, who got so joyful over the report that Cleveland was elected, that he took his whip in hand and marched up town to run things, but was knocked out by Mr. Freeman, came to his senses yesterday and would he had been a disciple of St. John. Al is a good fellow and would not have done so for anything had he been in his sober senses. He expired yesterday at Freeman was in jail and said it was, to let him out as he would not appear against him. He is suffering now with a painful jaw and a remorse of conscience.

H. T. Canlon, the popular merchant tailor of Main street, near the wholesale grocery, has just received a fresh invoice of handsome new coats. These are upon exhibition upon his counters and are being made up into handsome and stylish suits for his large line of customers. Mr. Canlon is a cutter of many years' experience in the city of St. Louis, employs good workmen, and has established a first-class reputation since coming to this city, as a pleasant and honorable gentleman with whom to do business. He guarantees all the clothing that he turns out to give perfect entire satisfaction.

A man named Louis Nadau, a fitter in Appleby's painting mill, met with a very serious accident yesterday. He was hammering a buzz saw and while carefully looking about him, his hand slipped under the saw and he was instantly cut across the middle of the palm, almost cutting it clear off. He believed that complete amputation will be necessary.

THE STATE VS. J. J. WILLIAMS.

J. J. Williams, the printer who assaulted John H. Ayers, former of the Eagle office, last Monday night, had an examination before Justice Hobbs yesterday.

Frank Dodge conducted the case for the state and T. R. Wall took charge of the defense. The charge was assault with intent to kill. Mr. Williams insisted on having the testimony of two principal witnesses for the state—Mr. Ayers and Mr. Miller—reduced to writing. After some discussion as to who would pay for such work, G. W. Jones was detailed to take down the testimony verbatim. Mr. Ayers' testimony ran about as follows:

About 11:30 on the night in question Williams and Ford, employees of the Eagle office came in under the influence of liquor, some dispute arose about an overcoat and he Ayers, ordered them out as they were hindering the work of the men in the office and he said he would if necessary. He then returned to the door and they went out, but returned in about half an hour, he ordered them out again and Ford refused, but Williams remained, making hostile demonstrations and threatening to cut and shoot. Ayers took hold of him and laid him out the door and just at the outside Williams cut him in several places. When he found out he was cut he came in and stood in the doorway, just inside the door having a side stick in his hand, Miller handed him the side stick and turned round and struck Williams on the head with it. His testimony was fully corroborated by Miller and Combs. At the conclusion of the testimony Mr. Jones read the case and Williams and Ford were sworn for the defense. Williams took the stand and his testimony was as follows:

He contracted the evidence for the state in many instances. He said he first came up for an overcoat and was put out he next came up for a drink and said Ayers stopped him at a case opposite where Williams and Miller had side sticks in their hands and followed him and he was in the doorway and that Ayers struck him twice and he cut him and twice after he also said that Miller struck him. The examination was controlled all tomorrow.

COVERED OVER.

Recent developments leads to the conclusion that there could be no difficulty about making out a case against the man who was recently arrested in women's clothes. Information has been received from reliable sources that the individual in question was a man masquerading as a woman, and that he was in the same condition in which he was found in Kansas City, for which he had to pay a heavy fine.

The same authority stated that an officer brought a suit of men's clothes to the fraud, and that the thing was hushed up as many other things of an unlawful character have been smothered up and the guilty party allowed to go free to follow his nefarious occupation, without a single word of warning to put people on their guard against such rascals. Why are such matters covered over?

THE ROSS APPLIES.

The box apples of this year reached this office yesterday morning, from the farm of W. F. Stevens, of Union township, whose farm lies on the banks of the great Arkansas, on section 1, township 26, range 2, west, Mr. Stevens' orchard was set out in 1871, and is probably the oldest orchard in the country. He placed in it of the Northern Spy variety which he had pulled in the morning which weighed thirty-six ounces, and these apples measured 1 1/2 inches in circumference, and all the farmers of the great fruit country of the north are expected to produce larger Northern Spies.

OPERATIONS ON THE SUNFLOWER.

Seven car loads of Pittsburgh steel rails and two car loads of bridge material came in from the east night before last. The bridge timber was unloaded here and the carpenter force began to frame it ready for use and it will be shipped to the front as needed. The rails were taken to the front yesterday. The track-laying is progressing rapidly, the weather being all that could be desired. With favorable weather the track will reach Arkansas about December 1st. A large gang of the army has been sent to the surface the newly laid track so that it will be in order for the running of regular trains almost as soon as laid.

Mr. George Pruetz, for the many kind offices and the sympathy shown him during his late illness, desires to make public acknowledgment of his heartfelt thanks.
